MANAGER, PERFORMANCE ANALYTICS AND REPORTING

Are you ready to start a new adventure with a growth oriented, forward looking company? Does seeking out new frontiers of data and analytics grab your attention in a meaningful way? Then you should keep reading and think about applying.

Rifco National Auto Finance is searching for a Manager of Performance Analytics and Reporting. We want to lay the groundwork for leading edge constructs in data, analytics and reporting so in turn we can lead the industry. The future is full of opportunity and game changing ideas but we need the foundation to fully test and exploit them. Rifco is looking for builders and explorers. Is that you?

Do you have experience with any or all of the following:

- Developing a corporate data warehouse, inhouse or outsourced
- Building reports using BI Tools and fluent in multiple query languages
- Conducting deep dive analytical exercises into business, financial or operational performance
- Used words like predictive, correlational, algorithm, statistical or modelling to describe your pride projects
- Providing audit and /or reconciliation to validate the integrity of data and reports
- Formal training (university, college or other) to do any of the above
- Working within a technology centric business department for over 5 years
- Coach, mentor or lead those with ambitions within your field

The requirements are stated simply because the objective is simply stated ... build the best and make it better.

You will be given a blank sheet of paper to get started. You will lead and not be led.

Are you ready? Let's talk.
